State Senate Passes Own S-35 Bill

THE STATE Senate yesterday concurred unanimously in a House-amended version of its own S-35 Bill limiting the amount of revenue school districts and municipalities may collect after county tax equalization programs go into effect.

The bill will go to the office of Gov. George Leader today to await his signature.

S-35 stipulates that school districts and local taxing bodies must revise their millage rates downward as assessments rise. It would allow school districts to collect only 10 percent more in taxes the year following initiation of county tax equalization procedures than it did the preceding year. The limit on other bodies would be five percent more than the year before.

The bill provides, however, that school districts may take their case to the local court. If the court gives its permission, the district may then raise its millage rates again to meet budget needs for new buildings or other purposes.

The school district (or the appealing tax body) would have to foot the bill of taking an appeal to court.

Section
A House amendment to the bill re-worded a section which had referred to "new houses" and places. Instead, the wording "new building or structures." Otherwise the original intent of the bill—which has been opposed by some school directors and boards in isolated districts—remains the same.

A general confusion and misconception concerning the passage of the bill initially and its final passage by the Senate was made more complex last week by a notice mailed out by Norman Piel, Northampton County commissioner, who is chairman of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners' legislative committee.

In that letter, Piel said that S-35 "is now on the Governor's desk for signature." The Piel letter was mailed last week and received locally by county commissioners on Monday.

The bill was originally passed by the Senate on Feb. 18. Opposition to it developed a week later when it was in committee in the House. Opponents made no headway, however, in their efforts to head off the bill's passage by the House.

According to Piel, "S-35 makes it mandatory for local governments to reduce the millage in direct proportion as the volume of assessments are increased in each governmental sub-division, including the counties."

Denmark To Stay In NATO

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 30 (AP)—Denmark told Soviet Russia today she is staying in NATO, considering it the only peace-saving instrument now available in Europe.

The Danish reply to Soviet nuclear threats was in the same calm, firm vein as a note which Norway, sent to Moscow April 13. Norway, too, declared she intends to stay put in the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin had fired off threatening notes to both, asserting that use of their territory for atomic bases would expose them to extinction in an atomic war. West Germany, also a NATO member, and neutral Sweden have been targets of similar threats.

Councilman Resigns

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—City Councilman Edward A. Cunningham resigned today while under investigation—the second councilman to do so in three weeks.

'Majority' Of Directors Oppose Thruway Route

JOHN M. CRANDALL, highway committee chairman of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club, said last night a "majority" of the club's directors are opposed to the state-recommended route for the Stroudsburg Thruway.

"The proposed plan selected by the state is controversial," Crandall reported to the club membership. "The Citizens Committee have proposed a route which is now being studied by the State Highway Department."

"Your board (of directors) has not taken official action on either the state's route or the newly proposed route," Crandall declared.

"Your board's position is that of urging the State Highway Department to provide limited access highway that will be adequate for present needs; that may be readily expanded or enlarged to meet the future needs of the community; that will provide a smooth rapid flow of traffic with adequate access to both boroughs; that will take scenic advantages of the area; and, most important, will be at the lowest cost."

"The majority of the board seriously questions that the route proposed by the Highway Department complies with the above," Crandall reported.

Afterward, Crandall told a Daily Record representative he did not necessarily mean the board opposed the recommended Thruway route, but merely "seriously questioned" it.

Dulles Confers With Ike Before Flying To Germany

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles held a 25-minute airport conference with President Eisenhower today, then took off for a North Atlantic Treaty meeting in West Germany.

A principal aim of Dulles' mission is reported to be to cement the NATO alliance more firmly together in the face of the Soviet Communist threat.

Red China Sends Out Distress Signal

By The Associated Press

COMMUNIST China has sent out an economic distress signal which may oblige the Soviet Union to respond with a dramatic gesture of help.

The China situation could dictate a new all-out peace offensive designed to let the dust settle until the Russians and Chinese arrive at a satisfactory solution.

This would call for a strategic temporary retreat on the more dangerous of the world's political fronts, including the Middle East.

The Red Chinese, like the U.S.S.R., bent on heavy industrial development to build world power, have reached a point where they are finding it both difficult and perilous to continue export of food, raw materials and consumer items in return for equipment they must have for their program.

Much of the consumer goods export goes to the U.S.S.R.

The distress signal went out Tuesday. Peiping admitted over-investment in heavy industry production brought economic complications. It raised food and consumer goods prices to stem an inflationary spiral.

Senate Approves Plan To Sound Out Voter Sentiment On Legalizing Betting In State

HARRISBURG, April 30 (AP)—The Senate tonight approved a plan to sound out voter sentiment in November on legalizing betting at horse races tracks in Pennsylvania.

The 26-22 vote crossed party lines as both Republican and Democrats attacked Gov. Leader's about-face position on the controversial issue. Twenty-six votes are needed to pass a bill.

The governor, backtracking on his previous stand, asserted his outright opposition to holding a statewide referendum on the question in the Nov. 5 general election.

The measure went to the House where it faced an uncertain future. The bill would place on the ballot at the November election the question: "Do you favor horse

Jordan's King Declares End Of Crisis

AMMAN, Jordan, April 30 (AP)—King Hussein announced today "The crisis in Jordan is ended."

The 21-year-old monarch, apparently feeling himself in firm control after three weeks of touch-and-go tension which threatened the peace of the whole Middle East, rejected a Soviet complaint that the United States was interfering in Jordan affairs.

He told a crowded news conference Jordan is not interested in the Eisenhower Doctrine which aims to defend the Middle East from Communist aggression.

"But if it is a matter of combating communism, this we are doing," he said. "The spread of communism is a threat to our national and spiritual well-being."

Not Over

The danger was not over, despite the surface calm. Military law remained in effect in this nervous kingdom, target for heavy propaganda attacks from Egypt, Syria and the Soviet Union. Political parties remained under a ban.

The King said he declined a visit from President Eisenhower's special envoy, James P. Richards, because this country had no interest in the Eisenhower Doctrine. This, plus Hussein's insistence on his continued devotion to Pan-Arab nationalism, underscored the temper of the country.

Hussein's new government is ready to accept a U. S. offer of 10 million dollars in economic aid, provided the aid does not commit this country to the Eisenhower Doctrine. The State Department in Washington indicated Jordan asked the aid last week, and said it would not come from the 200-million-dollar fund authorized under the Eisenhower Doctrine to help combat Middle East communism.

Hussein and his new government of moderate political leaders have made long strides in the past few days in beating down Communist and allied elements, but the government still is in no position to risk association with the Eisenhower plan.

Russia Offers
New Plan For
'Sky Patrol'

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—Russia offered tonight to open up part of the Soviet Union to President Eisenhower's sky patrol plan in exchange for Soviet photo surveys of Alaska and possibly all the United States west of the Mississippi River.

The plan was laid before the U. N. disarmament subcommittee and was plugged heavily by Moscow radio.

The U. S. delegation declined to comment, and other subcommittee members reacted variously. Some thought the Soviet plan slightly encouraging. Other reaction was unfavorable.

Industrial Regions
In Washington, White House secretary James C. Hagerty declined to comment on the proposal.

In return for Soviet photo reconnaissance of Alaska and an area that might embrace the 22 states west of the Mississippi River, the Russians offered to open up about one-third of the Soviet Union.

The Russian area would embrace eastern Siberia, an unspecified area in Europe, the Kamchatka Peninsula west of the Aleutian Islands, and Sakhalin, the big island north of Japan. But apparently the heart of European Russia including Moscow would not be included.

Few Showers
A few showers broke out in the Rocky Mountains from Montana to New Mexico and Arizona. A thunderstorm doused northwest Washington.

Clear skies extended over the bulk of the states from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Coast.

A high pressure area centered in Texas was expected to bring a temporary end to the extremely warm weather in parts of the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes region.

Senate Rackets Probers Request Reply From Navy

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Senate rackets probers demanded today a quick answer from the Navy to allegations that it provided money for "bribery or extortion" payments to Teamsters Union officials.

The special Senate Rackets Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D - Ark.) announced it would explore fully the testimony of manufacturer Earl P. Bettendorf. The businessman said the Navy amended one of his contracts to give his firm an extra $18,591.30, knowing that about $4,000 of it would be used for payments to union officials.

Testimony
The committee is making a year's search for evidence of racketeering in labor and industry.

Bettendorf swore he was forced to pay in order to get his trucks, with nonunion drivers at the wheel past Teamsters Union inspectors at the gates of the Army Signal Corps plant at Tobyhanna, Pa.

In his testimony he said at one point that "I was paying them a bribe, and I paid it with the complete knowledge of the U. S. government."

But he later testified it was not really a bribe at all, but a forced payment with "knowledge and consent" of the government.

He followed up today with a new statement, released through Lewis B. Greenbaum, his Richmond, Va. lawyer, ridiculing any contention that the alleged payments could be construed as bribes.

"Bribe for what?" he demanded. "To go on an Army post?"

Danger Spots
Reading from west to east, these were the potential danger spots: Three Rivers on the Colorado, Freeport and the Navasota area on the Brazos, Liberty on the Trinity and Deweyville on the Sabine.

The floods, which began with heavy downpours April 18, brought strange contrasts after seven searing years of drought.

In lowland areas, farmers bitterly watched as their crops were ruined for the eighth year—this time by floods. Their cattle drowned and floated downriver. Little children and their parents huddled in flood relief shelters.

In upland areas or sections not touched by damaging floods, farmers and ranchers rejoiced at greening fields and pastures.

Men controlling the gates on Texas lakes had these choices:

Keep the lake gates closed and flood upstream areas and possibly damage their dams.

Open the lakes and add more misery to the plight of downstream dwellers.

Residents of the White Rock area of Dallas, Texas, are wading near their abandoned homes as flood waters continue to rise after a week of torrential rains.

To add to the trials of Texas, a tornado struck in the southern part of Tyler causing damage to a great many houses and schools.

United States Strikes Back At Russia

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The United States, striking back at Russia, today blamed the crisis in Jordan on intervention by Soviet-controlled "international communism."

A spokesman declared that since World War II the Soviet Union "has subjected 10 once independent nations to its rule." His implication appeared to be that the Reds have been trying to gain domination of Jordan.

State Department press officer Lincoln White made the charge of foreign intervention at a news conference in response to requests for U. S. government reaction to charges made in Moscow yesterday.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry had declared that the United States was primarily responsible for any "grave consequences" that might arise from the Jordanian crisis. It assailed the West for "foreign interference" in the Middle East.

Declaration
King Hussein of Jordan had declared last week that the troubles of his country were due to "international communism and its followers." The United States endorsed his assertion at the time but today's comments by White pinned the responsibility somewhat more directly on the Soviet Union.

White declared that the records of the United States and Russia since World War II "speak for themselves." He said the United States has "encouraged and welcomed independence movements which led to the creation of 19 new states in the world while the Soviet Union has 'subjected ten once independent nations to its rule.'"

THE marathon rain storms in Texas slackened Tuesday — too late to prevent the threat of more extensive flood damage.

Residents along the upper Sabine River were braced for the worst flood in the river's history. Major floods were expected on other Texas streams.

Light rains sprinkled the Great Plains from South Dakota to Texas. Rain and thunderstorms extended along the Gulf Coast from Louisiana to Florida.

Cost To Reach Total Of $4 Million

A REPORT on the progress of bridge and highway projects made necessary by the August, 1955 flood was given by T. K. Rothermund, district engineer for the State Highways Department, last night.

He and John G. Giles, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, shared the speakers' platform at the annual meeting of the Pocono Mountains Motor Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Rothermund said he carried a message from Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler to the effect that work on the flood projects is going ahead as fast as humanly possible. The district official mentioned some of the factors which have delayed the work. He listed specifically the steel shortage which has caused deliveries to run behind schedule as much as 18 months, and also the fact that the construction season is shorter here than counties to the south because of a difference in climate.

Rothermund said many people think building highways is like unrolling wallpaper, but he reminded an audience of about 100 motor club members such is not the case.

Question
The question, "Why not use pre-stressed concrete?" is a good one, Rothermund said, but he noted this is a comparatively new development and enough plants are yet in operation to produce the pre-cast steel beams which are needed.

The district engineer quoted from a report he had prepared for Secretary Lawler at the request of Rep. Hanford L. Cleveland (R-Monroe) on the status of Monroe County flood damage projects.

As of April 12, the report showed 26 projects completed or under construction at a total cost of almost $2,000,000.

In addition, plans are nearing completion for projects that will cost another $1,500,000, Rothermund said.

Another 18 bridges to be let under contract at an estimated figure of $540,000, boosting the total to be spent on flood rehabilitation at more than $4,000,000.

This money, he said, is in addition to the millions of dollars the state spent to build temporary bridges and relocate and rebuild highways immediately after the flood. Most people, he added, lose sight of the great expense incurred in temporary work during the post-flood period.

By July 4, Rothermund predicted "you're going to see the results of the work that doesn't show up so well until it is completed. By Labor Day, many other projects will be finished."

PMF President Giles was introduced by John M. Crandall, club vice president. He spoke chiefly on the 41,000-mile federal highway program and detailed some of the problems faced.

Demand
The demand for more and better highways is increasing, he said, because of the development of the modern automobile, the decentralization and growth of population, a greater desire on the part of people to travel and predictions of a 30-hour work week.

Besides high construction costs and steel shortages, the limited amount of engineering talent available to plan new highways is one of the biggest problems encountered, he said.

Giles noted that highway departments called upon private firms of consulting engineers to plan new roads whenever the need arises. And when a highway is designed by a consultant, he does the job with only one idea in mind, and that is to build it to serve the most people in the foreseeable future, usually about 20 years, and at the most economical price.

Giles said he believed the State Highway Department wants to accomplish everything possible for the motorist and is doing a fine job despite the fact Pennsylvania maintains more miles of highway than any other state in the Union.

College PSEA Branch To Hold Banquet

MEMBERS of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College Branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn. will hold its annual dinner meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. The event, which is held every Spring, will include this year the installation of officers for the coming two-year period.

Officers to be installed are: president, Perry W. Bean; vice president, Russell J. Emel; secretary, Dr. Martha L. Smith; and treasurer, Franklin B. Buser.

The banquet this year has added significance as a part of the nation-wide celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the National Education Assn.

Dr. Nathan G. Meyer, director of student teaching and placement at the college will review the accomplishments of 100 years of NEA activities.

College President Dr. Leroy J. Koehler, president of the college and a veteran member of the faculty will also address the gathering.

The main address of the program will be delivered by Eugene Berlin, headquarters staff of PSEA. Berlin is a very widely known in educational circles as a speaker and writer, with an impressive background in that field. A native of Lycoming County, he held various positions in the public schools of that area following his education at Bucknell University, Howard University, and the University of Chicago. From 1936 to 1940 he was director of public relations of the Department of Public Instruction. Since 1947 he has been assistant executive secretary of the PSEA in which capacity he has traveled widely and addressed thousands of students, educators, and citizens. He is a member of over 35 educational and civic organizations, and has served in positions of leadership in many of them. Of his numerous other interests, Berlin puts "people" and "speaking at dinner meetings" at the head of the list, which in part explains his great popularity as a speaker.

All evidence points to a penitence Broadway theatrical producer when his wife vanishes, in "Strange Disappearance" at 8:30 p. m. on ch. 6 and 7. . . . Ralph Meeker, James Whitmore and Richard Arlen will star in "Deep Water," a tense adventure story of the Mary Underwater Dredging team of World War II at 10 p. m. on ch. 2 and 10. The story tells of a group of frogmen and their tough commander as they engage the enemy on the floors of the Pacific.

Mental Health Association To Organize

MONROE COUNTY'S new Mental Health Assn. will hold its organizational meeting Wednesday, May 15 at Stroud Community House.

According to Mrs. Mary Henning, the committee's chairman and coordinator, the meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m.

This will be the first step in a planned mental health program for the county, Mrs. Henning said.

Initial Start

The organization received its initial start under the guidance of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs. Thus it is the newest — and in many respects one of the most ambitious — in the long series of projects undertaken by women's groups in the county.

The Mental Health Assn. will have a number of goals. Included will be the establishment of recognized and correct methods of treatment for persons suffering from mental illness in any form. As an early basic aim, however, the MHA will attempt to break down public prejudices against mental illness, within its county-wide area.

All interested persons are invited to attend the organization meeting of the association, Mrs. Henning said.

Stroudsburg Lions Club Favors Merger Of Two Boroughs

Asure Speaks On Resort Publicity

MERGER of the twin boroughs last night was formally favored by members of the Stroudsburg Lions Club at their regular dinner meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Highlighting the meeting was an address by Paul A. Asure, president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, who noted that his agency believes that the average Monroe County businessman does not possess enough information concerning the PMVB.

Asure stated that large amounts of money are contributed by the hotels for advertising and promotion purposes. He also noted that an attractive brochure is being prepared to advertise the area's charms.

Paper

He said seven-and-a-half tons of paper will be used in printing the forthcoming brochure.

Two new Lions, Arthur Jolley and Lloyd Imbt, were welcomed into membership and given the lion's roar.

Dr. Paul Maxwell was songleader.

Lion Ed Katz reported on the coming state convention which opens in Scranton on Sunday, May 19 with a necrology service.

President Harold Miller reminded members that the annual election will be held at the next regular meeting.

Newsman Invited To View Tests

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Newsman were invited today to observe and report on nine of the shots that will be fired in the 1957 nuclear tests in Nevada.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission made the announcement for the AEC, the Department of Defense and the Civil Defense Administration.

About 60 persons from Civil Defense organizations will also be invited to witness each of the nine "open" tests, beginning six weeks hence.

He said "all will be low-yield detonations of fission devices" which means that they will all be conventional atomic blasts. The vastly greater explosions of the fusion process of the hydrogen bomb are set off in the Pacific.

Fish Commission Declares Support

HARRISBURG, April 30 (AP)—The state Fish Commission declared its support today for a $4 fishing license fee as a means of averting a reduction in the agency's program for Pennsylvania sportsmen.

But William Voigt, executive director, said the commission's endorsement of a bill covering the $1.50 fee boost is dependent upon "promised amendments" to the measure.

Tobyhanna Signal Depot Features Building With 'Plastic Bubble Skylighting' Setup

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles dealing with "Tobyhanna Days" to be celebrated in the Stroudsburg on May 9, 10 and 11. The series of articles and pictures will continue until the opening of "Tobyhanna Days." Each will be written by Leonard Randolph.

By Leonard Randolph
TOBYHANNA SIGNAL Depot has a number of "firsts" to its credit.

It's the largest installation of its kind in the U. S.

It employs a personnel force sizeable enough to fill a small city.

It has earned citations time and again for the smoothness and efficiency with which its internal organization is managed.

And it has the first large building constructed as part of a big installation which uses "plastic bubble skylights."

This last attribute may not strike the average reader as something outstanding—but it has attracted great attention among industrial builders throughout the nation.

Plastic bubble skylights came into being after World War Two.

At first the idea was introduced as a means of using left-over or surplus tough plastic construction designed for bombers and other aircraft.

In the electronics maintenance and repair shop building at the Depot, a major portion of the light comes through from multiple plastic skylights in the roof.

Some designers may have been pessimistic, at first. But their objections were based primarily on the amount of light which would filter through the plastic. They had no cause to worry, so far as the Signal Depot shop is concerned.

Officials there found that the bubble let through plenty of light—a little too much, as a matter of fact. A few weeks after the installation went into use on a full-time basis, workers were called in to perform a minor addition to the building—they sprayed thin coats of paint on the skylights. The purpose: To cut down slightly on the amount of sunlight allowed to pass through them. The result: One of the best-lighted modern shops of its kind.

Although the electronics shop cannot possibly be "on display" during "Tobyhanna Days" in the Stroudsburgs May 9, 10 and 11, Depot officials have assured local authorities that dozens of examples of work done by the department will be set up in exhibits.

Final plans for "Tobyhanna Days" are now being drawn up. At the Depot workers are busy putting the finishing touches on more than half a hundred displays which are "bigger and better" than those in the 1956 and 1956 shows.

On the local level merchants in the two boroughs are rolling out the red carpet for Depot visitors again. There will be special sales and promotion activities in both towns.

The purpose of the annual celebration is to help the two communities—each necessary to the other in its own way—become better acquainted, according to local officials.

Feasibility Report Made To Bangor Council

BANGOR—A feasibility report to the Bangor Borough Council on the matter of construction and financing of a sanitary sewage system was presented last night by the Mast Engineering Co., Reading.

The firm had been retained by Council to prepare the report at the April meeting. Their fee was $600.

Mast informed Council that the estimated cost of construction and financing would be $1,466,300. This figure is divided as follows:

Collection system — $780,800; treatment plant and site — $430,000; engineering and inspection — $111,000; legal and administrative costs — $17,000; interest during construction — $81,500; bond discount — $46,000; contingency fund, plus five percent — $61,000.

It was noted that the bond issue would be for $1,467,000. Of this amount, the engineers reported, it would be reasonable to expect that some $61,000 would not be needed but would be held in reserve as well as $81,000 interest charged during construction.

To meet the cost of construction, it was reported that the borough has 115,100 feet of assessable frontage upon which property assessments can be levied. It was estimated that the average to be charged on front footage would be about $8 per front foot.

Revenue
This would be a revenue of $758,000 toward construction costs, over a five to seven year term, and is referred to by engineers as a short term phase of financing. The balance of $709,000 would be financed over a 40-year period at 4½ percent interest rates. It would, therefore, establish an annual rental fee of $33.37 per home.

A statement made by M. J. Eways, Mast Co., Bangor's project cost is "within reason as a matter of fact it is cheap in relation to other communities. The cost to individual home owner was not reviewed as to how much it would drop should industrial users pay a higher user-rate."

Besides the sewage report, Council authorized the law committee—Horace Jennings, chairman—in company with borough solicitor J. Lawrence Davis, to review aspects of the recent petition by Bangor Chamber of Commerce to Northampton County Court.

Trucker Files Suit Against Greyhound

By Paul Carlson

A TRACTOR-TRAILER driver has entered a suit in Monroe County Court against the Greyhound Bus Co. as the result of a high-way mishap on Route 611, north of Mount Pocono last June 15.

Atty. Walter Olenick has entered the suit on behalf of John Zymblosky of Chinchilla, whose truck was involved in a crash with a Greyhound bus operated by Kenneth C. Hirst.

The suit stated that Zymblosky was proceeding north on Route 611, while the southbound bus was in the act of passing a tractor-trailer.

Into Path

Suddenly "and without warning" the bus was driven into the path of the plaintiff's vehicle, the suit charges. The crash resulted.

The suit further alleges: 1—The bus was going at "a speed excessive under the circumstances."

2—It "suddenly and without warning (crossed) the center line of a three lane highway, and into the lane of traffic reserved for northbound motorists, and into the path of the plaintiff's vehicle."

3—The driver "failed to keep a careful and diligent watch on the highway for other traffic lawfully on the highway."

4—He "failed to have proper and adequate control of the brakes, and the bus under proper and adequate control."

Depot Personnel Not Involved In Inquiry

Congressional investigations have occurred so frequently in the last 25 years that we are apt to become all too complacent about the sometimes shocking revelations.

The inquiries make interesting reading while they are in progress, but when they have their locale in far-off places, we soon forget the details and shift our attention to other news of more current interest.

Now, all at once, our complacency is shaken by the exposures of what has taken place in our own back yard. We refer, of course, to the present Senate Rackets Committee investigation of Teamsters Union activities at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

On Monday, a Texas manufacturer testified he paid a Scranton union official to let non-union truck drivers enter the depot grounds during construction of the Tobyhanna installation.

The manufacturer, Earl P. Bettendorf, claimed it was extortion. Previously, Paul Bradshaw, a steward for the Scranton Teamsters local, testified Bettendorf had offered $200 a week to let the trucks move through the gates. Bettendorf says the payments were made to Joseph McHugh, a business agent for the Scranton local.

Some question arose Monday as to whether the payments were or were not in the nature of a bribe. This point seems academic to us at the moment.

What is more important in Monroe County is that the Tobyhanna Signal Depot is receiving nation-wide publicity of a sort that can leave a stigma in the minds of those who do not delve deeply enough into the facts.

The alleged incidents, it should be emphasized, occurred before the Signal Corps took over operation of the depot. Nothing that comes out of the Senate inquiry should be construed as reflecting upon any of the 2,500 persons who are now employed at Tobyhanna.

We credit the present personnel with doing a fine job in helping to defend the United States and its Allies. We repeat, they should not be associated with any of the testimony that comes out of the Senate investigation.

Opportunities Unlimited

People Need Help To Unlock Talents

By Anna Heywood
Emerson said, "Our chief desire in life is somebody who shall make us do what we already can."

I think most of us know what he meant. We know somehow that there's some talent, some worth, or some ability within us, but we need someone to evoke it. And when we meet a teacher in whatever field—who has that quality, we never forget him.

Winifred Cecil is that kind of teacher, although technically I guess you'd call her a voice coach.

Conducts Course
Miss Cecil conducts a course called, "The Joy in Singing," at Town Hall in New York. This is the seventh year of the course and already many of the participants have embarked on successful careers.

The first time I saw Miss Cecil in action I knew that she was the kind of teacher Emerson had in mind.

A young singer stepped on the stage and began her song. Her voice was good enough, but she gave a so-so performance.

When it was finished, Miss Cecil gently began to make what sounded like just a few suggestions. But the next time the girl sang, it was a new experience. She was simply marvelous.

I made a point of getting acquainted with Miss Cecil, because I had a feeling that she might have something important to say—not just to singers but to all people interested in unlocking their talents. And I was right.

Miss Cecil feels that singing, or any of the arts, is partly a matter of ability and partly a matter of putting yourself across. "Singers," she said, "even if they have beautiful voices, can get nowhere if they don't know what audience contact is. You have to sell yourself to the audience. So even a person with a limited voice can be a successful artist if he knows how to sell what's inside him, how to get things across."

Stage Presence
If you're a performer, even an amateur at the harmonica, remember that you have to face an audience. So don't be shy and wait until you're "perfect." Begin now to cultivate stage presence.

Miss Cecil also feels, as the title of her course suggests, that singing—and indeed any of the arts—should be fun. Don't have a stiff, serious, self-conscious approach. Singing, playing, painting or acting can be a lot of fun. If it is, it will liberate you up, make you a lot happier and a lot more attractive!

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

The "John Sedges" who wrote "The Townsman" was, in private life, Pearl Buck. "Nicholas Blake," who writes detective fiction, is the distinguished poet, Cecil Day-Lewis, not the first to discover that crime pays better than poetry. "Tom Graham," who wrote one of the first boys' books about flying machines, later won the Nobel Prize as Sinclair Lewis. John Galsworthy's first four books bore the author's name of John Sinjohn. "Nancy Boyd" was Edna St. Vincent Millay. The real name of the author of "Nineteen Eighty-Four" was Eric Arthur Blair—not George Orwell.

The reasons for writers attempting to disguise their identities vary widely. In some cases, as noted, two authors pretend to be one—or, contrariwise, insinuate they are three. Men pretend to be women—and women, men.

One writer had a very practical reason for dissembling: he was married to two women at the same time—and both of them were trying to track him down!

to eliminate these two filthy, dirty, unsanitary conditions.

Sincerely,
Phillips St. Resident.

Newsmen To See Launching Of First Earth Satellite

Washington, April 30 — The press has won another important victory against censorship—this time in the Pentagon.

Newsman will be allowed to cover the launching of the first earth satellite.

Defense Secretary Wilson is dropping his ban against that.

This still-unannounced decision is the second reversal in a week on a significant press issue.

The first was Secretary Dulles' partial backdown on barring newsmen from Red China. He abandoned that total blackout by proposing a compromise under which a few reporters would be permitted to go there.

Secretary Wilson's backstage change of mind is due to two factors:

(1.) Widespread and increasingly bitter press and other condemnation of his proposed censorship of the satellite launching; and (2.) the advice of three top Pentagon officials.

They are Air Secretary Donald Quarles, who is shortly becoming Undersecretary of Defense and is deemed Wilson's most likely successor when he quits later this year; new Navy Secretary Thomas G. Gates, Jr., and Murray Snyder, who was switched from the White House staff to Assistant Defense Secretary in charge of press relations.

This group strongly counseled Wilson against persisting in his censorship stand. He was urged to follow Dulles' example and allow press coverage "under certain necessary restrictions."

Foremost among these is the exclusion of newsmen from Iron Curtain countries—and some others.

Primary reason for that is the highly secret nature of Patrick Airbase, Cape Canaveral, Fla., the great missile and rocket testing center where the satellite will be launched.

Another limitation will be on the number of reporters covering the historic event. This is due to both security requirements and lack of facilities.

Up In The Air—Two great uncertainties still loom darkly over "Operation Vanguard"—official designation of the satellite project, which is a major feature of the International Geophysical Year that starts July 1.

One of these doubts is when the first "firing" will take place, and the other is whether it will succeed.

Scientists working on the satellites are frankly skeptical on both counts.

Tentative "target date" for the first launching is November. But a private report indicates there is much conjecture on that among the scientists. Their general consensus is that they will be highly pleased if one out of the first six launchings succeeds.

Twelve of the 21-pound, 20-inch spherical devices are under construction. Most of the scientists favor increasing the number to 25. They consider that would double the chance of "Operation Vanguard" succeeding.

States this report: "It is impossible to guarantee a successful flight by any specific date... Several rocket engines for the first stage have completely passed qualification tests, although at least one engine has failed to pass and an intensive program is underway to overcome the difficulty."

If successfully launched, the satellite, with a reflecting surface, should be readily observable with good binoculars under favorable conditions.

Orbited at from 200 to 1,200 miles in space, and traveling at around 15,000 mph, the satellite will be followed by the burned-out third stage rocket. This so-called "dead rocket bottle," weighing some 500 pounds, will continue doing this until it disintegrates.

The flight of this rocket also will serve important scientific purposes.

Secret switch — The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission has made an important change in policy.

The three-member agency has quietly reversed itself and has decided to include "ruble bonds" in the partial payments on long-delayed Russian securities from the $9,000,000 obtained for that purpose in 1933.

Previously the Commission had ruled against "ruble bonds." Only czarist "dollar bonds" were to receive payments up to $1,000 per claim. "Ruble bonds" were excluded.

This unannounced shift in position was by a two to one vote. It was brought about by Commissioner Pearl Carter Pace reversing herself and lining up with Chairman Whitney Gilliland, Jr. Previously, Mrs. Pace, former Republican National Committeewoman from Kentucky, had voted with Commissioner Henry Clay, N. Y., against including "ruble bonds" in the payments.

Principal holder of these securities are New York banks and investment brokers.

Why Mrs. Pace changed her stand is not known. So far all inquiring members of Congress have been able to ascertain is that she did it by leaving her vote with Gilliland before departing on a four-month trip to Europe.

At the Commission it is stated this tour is "an official business," and will include Italy, Switzerland, Greece, Austria, France, Germany and England.

A special House Interstate & Foreign Commerce Subcommittee, headed by Representative Morgan Moulder (D., Mo.) is digging into this matter. All the members of FCSC will be interrogated.

More than $3 billion in claims are pending against the $9,000,000 settlement fund. Of that huge total, approximately $75,000,000 are "ruble bond" claims.

NOTE — FCSC members are paid $20,000 a year and traveling expenses.

Some scientists believe that brick was made by men as long as 12,000 years ago.

At the time of the big fire, the population of Chicago was just under 300 thousand persons.

Barcelona, Spain — Since the days of Dostworth, the American tourist likely has been the largest single factor in straining the relations between the United States and any given country.

It is regrettable but true that over the years he has been noisy, condescending, given to tipping so lavishly that he threatens to disrupt the national economy, and full of statements such as "Well, sir, this Paece is all right, but it hasn't got a patch on good old New Hampshire, let me tell you!"

This has not endeared him to his hosts. They have taken his dollar, but they have despised him. I've been looking at him for a decade now—and it is pleasant to report today, at last, that he seems to have improved. Not completely. Enough, however, to make him endurable. He boasts a little less, the travel books have coached him to tip a trifle more rationally, and he occasionally is willing to concede, say, that Sacre, Sour is as pretty as the church back home in Tompkins Crners.

Our boy has grown a trifle more flexible and it becomes him.

He's still virtually omnipresent, though. This morning, in the hands of capable friends who know Spain and Barcelona reasonably well, I took off down the Calle Layetana, wandered through the crooked, sun-soaked streets of the old section of town, got lost a couple of times, and ended up finally at a typical little waterfront cafe not far from the Columbus monument.

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

Sipping beer in the sun and watching the Catalonian race of man go by, I had the feeling that at long last I had gotten away from the tourist world of cameras, maps, guidebooks and tweedy women in flat shoes—when a jovial group bore down on us, exclaiming happily, "Ah—a representative specimen of Barcelona enjoying a siesta at his favorite casa." It was a handful of the newsmen who had flown overseas with me. Now you tell me—how did they get there, anyway?

It was ever thus. Once in Paris I unearthed a Left Bank saloon, L'Oubliette, which was as far removed from the tourist beat as a man could get—and after a couple hours' nibbling at brandied cherries in a saucer, in this dark and picturesque bistro, started to leave... only to have a hand pluck at my sleeve from a nearby table, and a voice say, "Hey, Jack—you gonna be on that plane to London tomorrow?" The American tourist. Nothing is secret or sacred from him, in any land he visits.

Meet St. Michel, town of Normandy, France, is surrounded by the sea during high spring tide, but at low tide it is six miles inland.

Firemen To Feature First School

By Jim Riley

Monroe County's first fire school is rapidly taking shape and should be ready for a gala show on both Saturday and Sunday this weekend.

A total of 18 fire companies are planning to strut their stuff at an annual presentation.

It is quite possible that the list of companies will reach at least 19 before 8 a.m. Saturday.

Schools of this type serve a two-fold purpose. They enable each group of firemen to show their ability, but more important each fireman learns a little something at each school.

Schools of this type enable our fire companies to remain first rate in every department and each new trick learned may someday save a life or prevent a serious fire.

The school will be conducted at the Day St. grounds of Acme Hose Co. and at the Burgoon property, which is now known as the N. Fifth St. Proving Grounds.

Affairs of this type should receive the whole-hearted support of all concerned.

Walter Foss, owner, manager and chief publicity agent for Pocono Mountains Inn, you know—that one in the sky, was a guest at the Circus Saints and Sinners shindig recently.

It was held at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York and 2,000 people were present.

The honored guest was Robert Briscoe, the Jewish Lord Mayor of Dublin.

The organization poked all sort of fun at the Lord Mayor, who in turn, reportedly more than held up his end of the "jibe" department.

At the close of hostilities the crowd roared, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," without once consulting the author, Stroudsburg's own George Graff.

George, how did this guy Fossa swing an invitation to an affair such as this?

Harry Smith, popular superintendent at the General Hospital of Monroe County, is celebrating a birthday today.

Best wishes and many more anniversaries.

Harry lives at 608 Thomas St., Stroudsburg.

Dr. Morton Spinaer makes it a big date at the hospital today, as he also celebrates a birthday on May Day.

Dr. Spinner resides at 360 Green Tree Drive, East Stroudsburg.

Congratulations are also the order of the day in this case.

Dr. Gail Fegley, who has his office on Stroudsburg's N. 6th St., has that far away look in his eye, and an eye doctor won't help.

The only cure is a trip to a major league baseball game—and the trip is just as close as the good doctor can arrange.

Way Has Been Found To Save Money For U. S.

For 10 months, U.S. Senator John J. Williams of Delaware tried to persuade the Treasury Department to accept $1,508 he has left over in his Senate stationery account.

He failed to get results when he used normal channels of communication with the department. Confused over the Treasury's unusual procedures, the senator told newspapermen about his predicament.

And presto! A way has been found to get the $1,508 back into Uncle Sam's "free cash" account.

When Treasury Secretary Humphrey read about the situation, he quickly proposed a solution: "If Senator Williams would offer me a check for the amount, I will be glad to receive it personally."

Thanks to newspaper publicity, the secretary has gotten on the ball. He found a way to get the money back into the Treasury, but he hasn't yet come up with any explanation of the strange regulation against which the senator so properly complained.

George Sokolsky Says...

Hiss Statements Contrast With Chambers; Both Should Have Been Prosecuted In 1939

Alger Hiss has written a book about himself and his ordeal which is to be published on May 7, when it will be reviewed in this column as in many others. Meanwhile, I have received a most unusual letter from "The Book-mailer," Box 101, Murray Hill Station, New York 16, N. Y. I repeat the contents of this letter:

"Alger Hiss' book 'Court of Opinion-3.00,' will be published on May 7.

"To insure that readers of the Hiss book will have a proper court of public opinion, and know both sides of the story, we are going to give a copy of Whitaker Chambers' book 'Witness' to every person who buys a copy of the Hiss book from The Book-mailer."

"As always—The Book-mailer will pay the postage, anywhere in the world. And anyone who sends 5.00 to The Book-mailer for 'Court of Public Opinion' will receive Whitaker Chambers' 'Witness' absolutely free."

"We will appreciate it if you will tell your audience of this offer."

Lyle H. Munson.
I do not understand how Lyle Munson can afford to give two books for one, but I do know Lyle Munson and if he says that he will do it, I am sure that he will.

The Alger Hiss case was one of perjury. The only issue was who was telling the truth. Involved were Whitaker Chambers, the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Richard Nixon, Karl Mundt, the FBI and Alger Hiss. Two trials were held and there were several appeals but Hiss went to prison and served his sentence and is now a free man.

I cannot review his book until May 7 without breaking the release date. But Lyle Munson's offer fascinated me because actually, it is necessary to contrast Whitaker Chambers' statement of the case with Alger Hiss', and had the government accepted responsibility for its knowledge of the matter in 1939 when it was first encountered, it might have tried them both and jointly and perhaps then there would have been no doubt as to the guilt of either or both.

Espionage is an ugly business and an ugly charge to make against any man. Yet Marxism, as a religious movement absorbing the lives of its votaries, has consistently expected them to place party above family, nation and traditional morals.

In the eyes of a Communist Party member whatever is done for the party is ipso facto right, even at a great sacrifice, because the party will ultimately bring to the world a new civilization and a different kind of brotherhood of man, one in which there will be no racial, religious or national distinctions and in which the rewards will go to those who need them.

It is a pretty ideal, old as the world but repackaged in 1848 as a protest against an emerging capitalism which, in its Nineteenth Century manifestations, was very ugly. It then offered no greater hopes than are being satisfied in a city like Detroit today.

The Russians have been able to harness this idealistic manifestation in every country, thus utilizing native sons as Russian agents who really believed that they were nothing of the sort; they regarded themselves as saviors of mankind from the horrors of nationalism, traditional religion, bourgeois morality and capitalism.

In the 1930's, this seemed to stimulate many competent and adroit young minds; in the 1950's it is an exploded fashion which no longer attracts young people. In the 1930's the tendency was universal and gave Soviet Russia a power of international affairs which reached its peak at Yalta where Stalin sat with Roosevelt and Churchill, knowing that both had been betrayed to him.

In 1957, the situation is very different and the proof of the difference is that Soviet Russia is forced to employ its own citizens in espionage work. These people come not only as diplomats, but also as technical experts. They are not very good at the job. The cloven hoof is too readily exposed.

Idealistic youth has turned to other causes, the most universal of which is intensified nationalism in every country except the United States. In the Middle Eastern countries, nationalism has taken on a religious and uncompromising force and has already produced a number of small wars. It could produce a great war. In the United States, idealistic youth speaks vaguely of our world responsibilities, which do not seem to apply yet.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Letters For Special Delivery
Dear Dr. Albert Schweitzer:

Thanks for your warning to the peoples of the earth on the suicidal action of mankind in going ahead with atomic, hydrogen and cobalt bomb experiments. No man has pictured the inevitable end more plainly.

So-called civilized man is heading for his own finish and seems to want it guaranteed.

As one of the few truly great men of the world, and perhaps its leading humanitarian by personal example, you have a prestige that commands world-wide respect. Your words will get less of a brush-off than the words of countless scientists, diplomats, statesmen, public leaders and politicians. They should startle mankind into a long delayed realization of death and devastation ahead, even without war. But I doubt it. For you are assuming that man is smart and that he behaves sensibly without a struggle. You forget that the anti-Free World has leaders who should be in squirrel cages and they have advisers whose behavior weeks the wharf rat look wise and kindly.

You are a human being who has devoted more than 60 years of his life to easing the sufferings of his fellow man and saving lives. Since your youth you have dedicated yourself to the service of mankind. Personal comfort, profit and credit haven't mattered. You have lived according to the Gospel. So you have grown apart from human beings as a whole and don't realize how indifferent, stupid, dopey, pitiless and futile they have become. They are in a bad way. They can yawn and ask for the fumes even in an hour when Russia tests five bombs in 10 days. They can ask, "What's exciting at the movies?" at a time when death and desolation are dead ahead.

In addition to your many other talents, you are a musician and play the organ to relax from an arduous day at the bedside of the sick. Too many people in this world are musicians in the sense that they play the fiddle while civilization burns. Still, if anybody can arouse them, you can. You tower over the dictators, war lords and the monkey-wrench tossers. You speak as scientist, doctor, missionary, philosopher, benefactor and believer in things of the spirit.

Letters To The Editor

The Daily Record welcomes letters with a bona fide address given. Such signatures and addresses will be withheld if the writer desires.

Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Editor:
Before it's too late, and while the nests are still very small, the residents of Phillips St. just off N. Ninth St. would appreciate it if something were done to control the pesky tent caterpillars.

Last Summer we were overrun by these pests. Our homes were covered from top to bottom. We couldn't step outside our door without them tumbling down our necks.

And it's no fun picking them off the children's clothes when they come to the table to eat a meal. That goes for picking them from our beds, also; they don't make very good bedmates.

Last Summer we sprayed our homes, but there were so many they could not be controlled. So I hope this year all property owners will do their part to destroy the caterpillar nests before it's too late.

We also wish people riding past our houses would stop throwing papers and garbage from their cars as we have to clean it off our yards.

I hope some action is taken

Two Injured As Sports Car Upsets During Early Morning Spin At Mount Pocono Airport

MOUNT POCONO — Two men were pinned beneath a sports car for more than two hours yesterday following an early morning ride over the grass runway at Mount Pocono Airport. Injured in the mishap were the driver, Lloyd Ellison, 27, and

George F. Stack, 23, both of Mount Pocono. Ellison suffered a possible skull fracture and lacerations and abrasions. He was in good condition at General Hospital last night. Stack was discharged following treatment for lesser injuries. State Police said they were riding in the sports car when it overturned about 2:30 a. m. It wasn't until 5:10 a. m. that they were found by the crew which is trying to eradicate the gypsy moth in a three-county area.

Market Wins Spark From Wide Moves

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Most key stocks moved irregularly today and within narrow limits but the stock market got a spark of life from some wide moves by selected issues.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks was down 40 cents to $130.69 with the industrials down 50 cents, the rails down 90 cents and the utilities unchanged. Of 1,145 issues traded, declines outnumbered advances by 473 to 441. There were 72 new 1957 highs and 25 new lows.

Volume totaled 2,200,000 shares compared with 2,290,000 yesterday. Of the 16 most active stocks, 9 rose, 6 fell and one was unchanged. Bethlehem Steel headed the most active list, off 1/4 at 46 on 65,700 shares. Second was American Bosch Arma, up 1/4 at 26 on 32,000 shares. Third was General Motors, up 1/4 at 42 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange prices were mixed on volume of 780,000 shares compared with 870,000 yesterday. Corporate bonds were lower in dull trading. U. S. Government bonds declined in slow dealings over the counter.

Accepting Refugees
CIUDAD TRUJILLO, April 30 (AP)—The Dominican Republic is accepting 5,000 Jewish refugees from Egypt. A government announcement said they will be given agricultural and industrial jobs.

District Attorney Plans To Seek Indictment Against Greyhound Bus Driver Next Tuesday

DIST. ATTY. Detlef A. Hanson disclosed last night he will seek an indictment Tuesday against the driver of a Greyhound bus which plowed into a car near Blakeslee in January, killing five students at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Hanson said he will present the case of Raymond Joseph Barry, 24, of Philadelphia, when the grand jury convenes next week. Barry was charged with involuntary manslaughter shortly after the tragedy occurred.

The accident occurred Jan. 29 about five-and-a-half miles south of Blakeslee on Route 115, when the Greyhound crashed head-on into a car carrying the students back to school after mid-term vacation.

State Police said at the time the northbound Greyhound was running behind schedule because of heavy fog, freezing rain and ice-sticked highways.

Killed were the driver, Demetrius Speros-Marinos, 19, Bloomsburg; McClellan P. White, 18, Bloomsburg; William J. Snyder, 20, Danville; Terry Hawk, 19, Nescopeck, and Bernard Basel, 21, Berwick.

The bus driver and his five passengers virtually escaped injury.

The district attorney also reported he will present to the grand jury several cases, involving assaults, larcenies, and burglaries. However, he added that the list has not been completed as yet.

Pleas are expected to be accepted by the court on Monday.

Fred Coslar Services Held

FUNERAL SERVICES for Fred Coslar, 67 of Henryville, were held at 2 p. m. yesterday at the Lanterman Funeral Home.

Rev. Norman R. Savage officiated. Interment was made in St. Paul's Reformed Cemetery, East Swiftwater. Pallbearers were Hopper Singer, Herbert Woodling, Roy Possinger, Horace Storm, Chester Singer and Willard Possinger.

Record Helps Locate Man

MOUNT POCONO—State Police said yesterday that a story appearing in the April 24th issue of The Daily Record helped them locate Arthur Brown, who was believed to have been residing in the Canadensis area.

Troopers were seeking Brown to inform him about a death in his family.

Another brother residing in Greentown saw the article, troopers said, and notified Arthur in New York.

Advantage To Split-Level

AN EASILY maintained family room, as an extra living-room, is one of the advantages provided in the split-level house design now in great demand. The family room usually occupies the space behind the garage on the lower ground level. It is usually connected to the living-room by a short stairway. At small expense, a family room can be incorporated into new or remodeled houses, to be enjoyed daily by both grown-ups and children.

New Materials Create Unique New Designs

FAMILIES who build their own homes will find it worthwhile to take a tip from the nation's architects and builders when it comes to creating an interesting exterior design at low cost, says the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

A pleasing exterior, with sufficient variation from other houses in the same block to avoid a problem when building in the higher-price brackets. But in the moderate-price field, one must constantly bear in mind the costs. For this reason, expensive false gables, dormers and other structural features which afford variety cannot be used.

Combine Materials

Architects and builders overcome this by varying the colors and materials used on the exterior. Development builders in every section of the country create countless variations merely by using different combinations of materials.

For example, the front of one house is finished with stone veneer up to window-sill height. Stained wood shingles are placed above the stone to a line even with the eaves and the triangular area in the gable end above the shingles finished with Georgia-Pacific GPX plastic-faced plywood either in its natural state or painted in a harmonizing color.

Treatment of the next-door house could then consist of a red brick veneer wainscot to the top of the windows with horizontal clapboard siding completing the front, and perhaps a plastic-faced plywood flower box beneath the window.

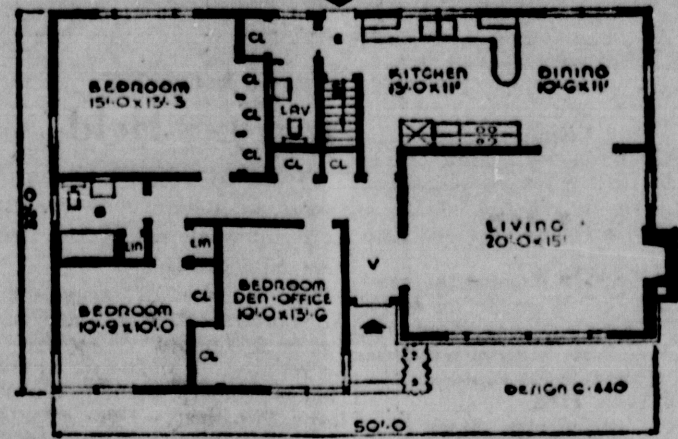

The third house in the row might be finished with a stone facade, 18" to 24" wide, around the front doorway with clapboards from the top of the foundation to the eaves line and vertical tongue-and-groove boards in natural finish above this in the gable end.

Still a fourth variation is to use stained wood shingles up to the window sill and smooth plastic-faced plywood, painted with a lighter contrasting color, for the remainder of the front.

Combinations of materials are almost endless.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-440

DESIGN C 440. This three bedroom, 1 1/2 bath home features a recessed entry and vestibule providing a direct entrance into the living room, bedroom wing and kitchen. The living room has a gracious corner fireplace and folding doors that enter the dining room. The adjoining modern kitchen features a built-in oven and counter range. There are spacious wardrobe closets and a full bath in the bedroom wing. One of the rooms, because of its location near the front entrance, can be used as a den or office, with direct entrance from the vestibule. On the outside, brick and vertical siding dominate the wide horizontal siding and add to the simple attractiveness of the front entrance and hip roof. Floor area is 1485 square feet, and cubage is 27,472 cubic feet. For further information about DESIGN C 440, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, St. John, New Brunswick.

'Built-Ins' Add To Modern Home's Comfort, Convenience

INEXPENSIVE "BUILT-INS" make the most of existing space and add comfort and convenience to the house, suggests the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

In a bedroom, one wall can be converted into a storage wall containing space for hanging clothes, and shelves for other articles. Sliding doors will save space.

Attic storage can be provided by installing a continuous set of drawers under each knee-wall. Several doors located in the low side walls will give access to otherwise wasted space between walls and eaves, which can be utilized for storage. For additional storage, built-in chests and shelves into walls, their fronts flush with the wall surface.

For a built-in wall cabinet, 30"x42" is a handy size. Conceal kitchen shelves with a drop-leaf front which makes a table when opened on hinges. Bottom of the cabinet should be 30" above the floor so that the front opens to standard table height. Space beneath and above sink should be used for deep built-in sliding-door cabinets.

Against a living-room wall, a long low cabinet can hold books, TV set, radio, phonograph and records, glassware and other party accessories.

To make sturdy, decorative cabinets, Georgia-Pacific Rippledwood paneling is inexpensive and easy to handle. The 4"x8" panels, 5/16" thick, simplify built-in construction and can be used for entire cabinets or cabinet doors. When painting or staining, no priming coat is necessary as the panel surface is already sealed.

In any room, attractive storage space can be provided by building bookshelves to flank an old-style free-standing radiator. Shelves should be the same height and depth as the radiator.

For extra bathroom storage, build a cabinet under the lavatory, extending past one or both sides of the sink to make a counter-top.

Wrap Tools In Rags

WRAP YOUR tools individually in a rag soaked with linseed oil and place in an empty coffee can. This will prevent the tools from getting dulled by striking against each other.

Save Money While Painting

WITH SIMPLE painting techniques, the homeowner can save money and time and add beauty to every interior. With milder days ahead, now is an excellent time for painting, suggests the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information. In either a new or an old house, the homeowner himself can do a quality paint job by observing fundamental rules and by using new methods.

Top secret of a successful paint job is proper preparation of the surface to be painted.

The best place to start in bringing wiring up to date is to start where your electricity gets its start—at the service entrance. Be sure the wire from outside and the switch box are large enough to bring in all the power you need today and may need tomorrow.

The next step is to install sufficient circuits ("pipes") to carry the power to the places where it can be used most conveniently.

Any local electrician will be glad to inspect your wiring and give you a "Housepower rating." It will save you money to get a free rating for your present home or to look for the "AH" Approved Housepower seal in new homes.

Kitchen Key To Life In Home

WHETHER IT'S a new house or an old one, the kind of life it is possible to live there depends to a great extent on the kitchen and its capacity for electrical growth.

During recent years this growth in most homes has shown a tremendous increase with the addition of more and better electrical equipment to do the homemaking job. But to get top service from these helpers, proper wiring, circuits and sufficient outlets must be provided.

Twenty years ago, if the wires were bringing 30 amperes of current into the home, it probably was sufficient. Ten to 15 years back the average house could operate on a 60 ampere service. Not today. With electrical activities ever on the increase, nothing less than a three-wire 100 ampere service will do—and many homes need more power. This is because today there are "electrical servants" to help the housewife and more on the way.

Servants

None of the major electrical servants in your house should have to borrow energy from each other. An electric clothes dryer, for example, will dry clothes better and quicker if it does not have to share a circuit with another appliance. A toaster will brown bread faster if the wire serving it is large enough to permit the passage of all the electricity it is capable of using.

The efficiency and economy of these and other appliances is realized only when they have full power. Just as you get a full flow of water only when the pipe feeding it is large enough, so you get a full flow of electricity only when the wire carrying it is large enough.

The joint problem also present in many of the varieties of processed wallboard made from vegetable fibres, asbestos, paper or other ingredients is overcome by "sparkling."

Walls Lend Value, Beauty To House

WHEN YOU buy a house, look into the walls. There are several types of wall construction and wall finishes, each with its own advantages. The homeowner should be familiar with each, it is suggested by the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

Plaster walls are comprised of hardening materials—lime of the slaked variety, gypsum, portland cement—mixed with sand, vermiculite, perlite or other aggregate. While in a pliable, workable state, the plaster is spread evenly over a prepared base, such as metal lath or substitutes, and allowed to harden. Two, sometimes three, coats are used. A smooth, glossy finish is obtainable, though some builders prefer a textured finish. To either, a variety of finishing and decorative materials may be added. Though plaster does make for a smooth and readily adaptable finish, it is subject to disfiguring cracks when the house settles. These cracks are not necessarily an indication of faulty work; in the case of structural failures, they may be caused by shrinkage of lumber; inadequate or poorly located footings; neglect to supply necessary bracing in structural members.

Numerous varieties of wallboard are available for use as backing for plaster; some include such extras as insulation and soundproofing. It requires the best in materials and labor, however, to prevent joints showing through the plaster job, and to avoid the general appearance of a skimpy or "thin" wall.

Paneling Economical

Production of plywood wall paneling in standard sizes has eliminated many of the objections common to other type interior walls, and resulted in labor saving which helps builders to deliver a quality house to the home-buyer without increased cost.

An example of this is Georgia-Pacific V-grooved hardwood paneling.

Americans Triumph In Car Rally

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—The second Anglo-American Vintage Car Rally ended today with an American team chugging to victory over the British.

British actor Cyril Ritchard announced the results at tea and cake ceremonies in the British Travel Center.

Antiques
Ten old British automobiles and 10 American antiques set out from New York a week ago in the 800-mile competition that took them into New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut. One stop in Pennsylvania was made at Skytop Lodge, Monroe County.

Under a penalty scoring system, the Americans lost 2,359 points to 3,074 by the British. The winners built up a heavy lead in hill climbs at Reading, Pa., early in the match and never were headed thereafter.

March Traffic Deaths Up

CHICAGO, April 30 (AP)—March traffic deaths of 2,920 were higher than either January or February and were just the same as those of March, 1956, the National Safety Council reported today.

Traffic deaths for the first three months of the year totaled 8,320, four per cent under last year's three-month total of 8,630.

In March, 408 of the 601 cities from which the NSC collects statistics reported no traffic fatalities. The three largest were Memphis, Tenn.; Norfolk, Va.; and Des Moines, Iowa.

Community Chest To Hear Reports From Committees

MONROE COUNTY COMMUNITY CHEST directors will hear reports from major committees Tuesday night, May 7 at a dinner meeting. The meeting will begin at 6:15 p. m. in Wyckoff's Tea Room. It is a "very important conference," according to Chest president E. Holt.

Wyckoff and Mrs. Ethel D. West, Chest executive secretary.

Highlight of the meeting will be reports from these three committee chairmen: Mrs. Elton Denning, Social Planning; S. Clair Smith, Budget and Frank S. LaBar, Finance.

Annual Hearings
The budget committee, under Smith's direction, is holding its annual hearings for agencies this week (ending tonight) at General Hospital. Agency allocations from the Chest are made up on the basis of needs estimated and studied by the Social Planning and Budget Committees.

Delegates from each of the Chest's agencies appear before the two committees to present their needs for the coming year.

Out of Tuesday night's meeting will come the estimated goal for the 1957-58 Community Chest campaign.

Barrett High School Names Valedictorian, Salutatorian

CANADENSIS — Linda Jane Henry and Maxine Ann Gravel were named valedictorian and salutatorian respectively of the Barrett High School senior class, it was revealed yesterday by George Webb, school principal.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley R. Henry of Cresco, RD. 1.

In school Linda was class president during her sophomore and junior years. She has been secretary of the Science Club and of the Future Homemakers of America, and a member of several other school clubs. She has been a member of the Mixed Chorus for four years, and one of its accompanists for two years. For two years she has been tympnist with the band and piano soloist in the Spring Concert.

Outside of school Linda is president of the Cresco Allied Youth Post and has attended its International Conference for three years. She has been a girl scout, a 4-H'er, and a member of Tri-Hi-Y. In 1954 she won the DAR award for good citizenship, and in 1955, third place for her declamation in the district forensic contest. She is a member of the Sunday School of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Stroudsburg, and serves as organist there.

Piano Pupil

Miss Henry has been a piano pupil of Dr. Harold Briggs of Scranton and hopes to graduate this Spring. She has been studying piano for seven years. She is planning a trip to Europe in the Summer of 1958 by way of hostels. Keenly interested in all subjects, she has no favorites.

As for her future Linda is all set to attend Principia College of Liberal Arts in Elmhurst, Ill. She will major in human relations at that small co-ed school.

Maxine is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Gravel, of Canadensis.

She has been a member of the High School Chorus, Health and Safety Club, Junior Historical Club, Dancing Club, Field Hockey team, Allied Youth, and the Yearbook Staff. During her Junior Year she served as class vice-president and as class president during her senior year.

Maxine has also been active outside of school. She is a member of the Canadensis Methodist Church where she is the Sunday School pianist and a member of the church choir. She is also pianist for the McComas Chapel.

Next year Maxine plans to enter nursing training at the Methodist Episcopal Hospital School of Nursing in Philadelphia.

no matter how you look at it,
the story stays the same!

Advertisers invest more money in Newspapers than in Magazines, Radio, TV and Outdoor combined!

The figures change but not the story. Last year advertisers spent a record $3,305,000,000 in newspapers — again surpassing their combined expenditures in TV, magazines, radio and outdoor.

The figures have changed, too, in daily newspaper circulation — now up to a new high of over 57,000,000. This growth enables newspaper advertisers — national, regional and local — to penetrate anywhere in the nation.

How do advertisers rate leading media by the amount of money they spend? Here are the McCann-Erickson-Printers' Ink Preliminary Estimates of Advertising

Expenditures for 1956, published on February 8, 1957:

Newspapers . . . . .	$3,305,000,000
Television . . . . .	1,255,000,000
Magazines . . . . .	782,000,000
Radio . . . . .	565,000,000
Outdoor . . . . .	200,000,000

No matter how you look at it — from the vantage points of circulation, penetration or adaptability — newspapers continue to give the best buy for your money.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers.

Wind Forces Postponement Of Spraying

MATAMORAS—High winds forced postponement of a 3,000,000-acre aerial spraying operation here yesterday. The spraying is part of a campaign against Gypsy Moths in Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties and neighboring portions of New York state.

The spraying was to have been witnessed by officials of three states.

Present
On hand were Govs. Averell Harriman of New York, Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and Lt. Gov. Roy Furman of Pennsylvania. But the display was called off when the wind velocity rose above two miles an hour.

Several planes were to spray parts of Orange County, N.Y., and Pike County, Pa. with chemicals to rid the area of gypsy moths. The program will continue as soon as conditions permit.

Benny Wins Court Review

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Comedian Jack Benny today was granted a Supreme Court review of an order barring use of a filmed parody on the copyrighted motion picture, "Gaslight."

The U.S. District Court in Los Angeles issued the ban on the ground that a parody or burlesque must be treated no differently from an ordinary appropriation of copyrighted material. That court held infringement exists if there is a "substantial taking" of material.

Benny's parody, intended for TV use, was entitled "Autolight." The order against its use was issued on request of Loew's, Inc. holder of the copyright on the movie "Gaslight," and Patrick Hamilton, British author of the play "Gas Light." Joining in the appeal to the high tribunal were CBS and the American Tobacco Co., a sponsor of Benny's programs.

Distribute Surplus
NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish relief agencies distributed more than 1,140,000,000 pounds of surplus food in foreign countries in the nine months ending March 31.

The American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service said the food came from surplus stocks released by the U. S. Commodity Credit Corp.

Milford Resident To Fill Deputy State Treasurer Post

MILFORD—Warner M. Deputy of Milford will be appointed deputy state treasurer, it was announced yesterday.

The appointment was made in Harrisburg by State Treasurer-elect Robert F. Kent.

Kent, a Republican from Meadville and a former representative in the General Assembly, will take the oath of office next Tuesday.

At 45 Kent will be one of the youngest state treasurers to hold that office. His deputy, also a former representative, is only 39 years old.

At the same time Kent announced most of his top administrative personnel will be under 50 years of age.

Other administrative personnel will include: Chester A. Gormley, of Summit Hill, director of the bureau of disbursements and Paul S. Rudolph, of Allentown, assistant director.

Deputy, a graduate of Milford High School and of Dartmouth College Class of 1939, served four terms in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives starting in 1943. He returned to his private business as a dealer in coal, feed and seed after the end of his fourth term in 1950.

He has served as Boy Scout committee chairman in Milford and is a member of the Lions Club, the Grange and the Elks. He was elected a Pike County commissioner in 1955 and is a director of the First National Bank in Milford. He is married to the former Virginia Zaloom and they have four children.

In his new state office, Deputy will assist the state treasurer in most administrative duties.

Hazleton Newspaper Publisher Dies

HAZLETON, April 30 (AP)—Publisher Henry Walser of The Hazleton Plain Speaker-Standard Sentinel, died at his home here today after a long illness.

Walser, who also was president of the First National Bank of Hazleton, purchased The Hazleton Sentinel in 1912 and The Hazleton Daily Standard in 1917. He combined the two into a morning operation.

Partnership
In 1926, he formed a partnership with the late John R. Der-shuck to publish the afternoon Plain Speaker and the Morning Standard Sentinel.

Walser's newspapers were members of The Associated Press for 45 years.

Garden Club Opens Course On Arrangements

Bushkill — The Garden Club held their April meeting at the "Red House" on Brisco Drive, the home of Mrs. Jovann DeRocco.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Robert Irwin, vice-president in the absence of president Mrs. Frank Tolman. Mrs. William Allen was welcomed as a new member.

The program plan for several meetings will be the study of flower arrangements. Members are studying a course introduced by the Pennsylvania State University. Mrs. Robert Irwin is serving as instructor for the club. The first lesson was held at the home of Mrs. Charles M. Fisher who served as hostess at the March meeting.

A report was heard concerning the special recipe book which the club is planning to publish. Anyone who has a favorite recipe may submit it together with their name and address to Mrs. DeRocco or Miss Esther Sloane.

Mrs. Paul Floria and Mrs. DeRocco served as hostesses. The refreshment table was regaled with appropriate spring decorations.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, May 9, at the home of Mrs. Horace Sloane with Mrs. Sloane and Miss Esther Sloane as hostesses.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

We are so conditioned to busyness, that we have to have excuses, even for such a simple thing as soaking up the sun. I spent the afternoon contentedly doing just that, but the contentment was contingent on the fact that I was also attending sewing club.

This passion for doing two things at once is a compelling one. It seems that it would be so simple a thing to satisfy the natural craving for sunshine after a housebound winter—just go sit in the sun. But instead we make up things to do outside: wash the windows, dig out dandelions, mow the lawn.

Or we play golf or go fishing or move sewing club outdoors. Anything to justify ourselves, though why we need justification I don't know; except that from childhood we've been conditioned to improving the shining hour, considering the ant, though sluggish, and concerned about the mischief that Satan finds for idle hands to do.

If you don't believe me—just try to go out in the back yard and sit quietly by yourself for an hour. After the first ten minutes an uneasiness starts prickling. You tidy a rose bush, or run in the house to clean the back window sill that looks so messy from the outside, or remember a telephone call you have to make, or the letters you should be writing, or the socks that need darning.

Anyway, I'll bet you'll never make it to the half-hour mark. It's like having ants in your conscience that makes it impossible to do nothing but sit by yourself and think. Ah, perhaps there's the rub. Perhaps it isn't our hands we must keep busy but our minds, lest we see too deeply beneath the placid surface to the dark untouched depths where who knows what mysteries lurk.

STC Senior Is Bride Of Olympic Star

Miss Donna Louise Stafford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Stafford, of 58 North Pine Street, Lewistown, became the bride of Samuel John Coursen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Coursen of 107 River Street, Forty-Fort, Pa., at 7 o'clock on Friday evening before the candlelit altar of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg. The pretty double-ring nuptial rites were performed by Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace Church pastor.

The bride was attired in a yellow and white check sheath cotton street length dress with black and white accessories and wore a white orchid corsage. Miss Claudette Kier, roommate of the bride at the State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg, was maid-of-honor. She was attired in a linen sheath street length dress of Navy-blue with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pink rose-buds. Louis A. Coursen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Immediately after the wedding a reception was held in honor of the bride couple at Penn Hills Lodge, Anasomink. An Adirondack honeymoon followed the reception.

The bride will be graduated from the State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg with the June class. She will teach English and History in Haddon Township Junior High School in Westmont, N.J.

The bridegroom was graduated from Springfield College in Springfield, Mass., with the class of 1953. He was a member of the U.S. Olympic Wrestling Team at Helsinki, Finland and is presently teacher of Physical Education and Wrestling Coach at Collingswood, N.J., High School. The newlyweds will make their residence in Collingswood, N.J.

Dinner Dance On Birthday Of Mrs. Caligiuri

Mount Pocono — A surprise party, in the form of a dinner dance, was given in honor of Mrs. John Caligiuri, Saturday evening, at Onawa Lodge. The centerpiece was made up of the proverbial decorated "Happy Birthday cake" and her floral piece was yellow roses.

Those who joined in the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caligiuri, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Saganich, Mrs. Anne Caligiuri, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Passanti, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sterlacci, of New York.

Boy Scouts Prepare For Spaghetti Supper May 9

Bushkill — Boy Scout Troop 78 will hold a spaghetti and meat ball supper on Thursday, May 9 at 6:30 p.m. in the Sunday School room of the Dutch Reformed Church.

Boys of the troop and their parents will staff the committee with Kimmie Garris serving as chef. The troop is sponsored by the Dutch Reformed Church.

Scoutmaster Albert M. Smith, Jr. announced that the proceeds of the dinner would be used to purchase necessary equipment for the boys and to institute a camping fund. Tickets for the dinner will be sold by the Scouts.

Reports On Radiation At Open Meeting Of Area PTA

Bushkill—Two talks on "Atomic Radiation" will be given at tonight's meeting of the Bushkill Parent-Teachers Assn. at the school. The meeting will open at 8 p.m.

Speakers will be Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, of Stroudsburg, and Joseph Kovarik, a teacher in the Stroud Union High School.

Dr. Shafer, a major in the Civil Air Patrol, will speak on the medical aspects of atomic fallout in a community. Kovarik, a captain in the Air Force Reserve, will describe the probable effects in the event an area is hit by an atomic bomb.

After the addresses, the PTA will hold a business meeting. The public is invited to attend.

Local Woman Delegate To Synod Meet

Mrs. Frederick Quig, Stroudsburg, president of the Mountain Regional Guild of the Ev. and Reformed Church, was elected delegate from the region to the Cleveland Synodical meeting this summer at the 16th annual spring meeting of the Regional Guild held yesterday in St. Mark's Ev. and Reformed Church, Flicksville.

Mrs. Lester Houck was the second delegate elected and the alternates named were Mrs. Harold Young and Mrs. John Smith. The Cleveland Synodical meeting will face many important questions, the synodical president, Mrs. Charles W. K. Shafer, said in her talk at the regional meeting yesterday.

With the proposed merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the Congregational Church, the women's groups of both groups are also working toward integration, she explained. The respective boards of the Women's Guild of the Reformed Church and the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational church will work together on their individual 1958 program and by 1959 expect to have identical programs.

There have been 21 new guilds formed in the Synod this year, Mrs. Shafer said, with a total of 2216 guilds now active. The Mountain Regional Guild has added one of these new guilds, the Women's Guild of Trinity Church, Wind Gap, it was announced.

The all day meeting opened with a worship service led by Mrs. Charles Weidman, greetings by Mrs. A. R. Ruch and response by Mrs. Marvin Krome. A playlet, "A New Look" was presented by the officers and chairmen, and reports on the work of the past year.

New chairmen installed by the host pastor Rev. Stewart Bortner included: Mrs. Mel Dunn, spiritual life; Mrs. Charles Weidman, promotion; Mrs. Stanford Beers, historian; Mrs. Fred Anglemeyer, stewardship; Mrs. Robert Booth, education; Mrs. Stanley Dunning, missionary education; Mrs. Warren Heiney, social action and Mrs. E.S. Rosenberry, service.

There were 127 present for the meeting. The Fall Worship will be held in the Zion Reformed Church, Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Harold Lewis Englert

Miss Pensyl Married In Grace Church

Bangor — The wedding of Miss Joan Elinor Pensyl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Pensyl, Bangor RD 1, to Harold Lewis Englert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Englert Sr., Mount Bethel, was held at the Grace Ev. Lutheran Church, East Bangor, on Sunday, April 28 at 2 p.m.

Rev. Paul Youse performed the ceremony with Mrs. Frances Fontanella Jr., cousin of the bride as organist and William Hyde, the bride's uncle, as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin, made with pointed sleeves, sabrina neckline, trimmed with iridescent beads, and an overskirt of lace which formed a chapel train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones edged with lace and trimmed with iridescent beads. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and baby breath.

Mrs. Dorothy Englert, Pen Argyl, was matron of honor. She wore an aqua gown of nylon chiffon. The bridesmaids: Mrs. Sylvia Pensyl, Bangor, sister-in-law, and Miss Mary Reiss, East Bangor, cousin of the bridegroom, wore similar gowns of orchid chiffon. Brenda Joan Fontanella, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The matron of honor carried a cascade bouquet of aqua gladioli and white iris, while the bridesmaid's bouquets were cascades of orchid gladioli and white iris.

The flower girl, Donna Kay Fontanella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Fontanella Jr., wore a gown to match the junior bridesmaids of ankle length white taffeta with an overskirt of net and an orchid bow and streamers of satin ribbon. The flower girl

Henry Kresge Honored By Co-Workers

An informal farewell party was held on Monday night in honor of Henry Kresge by his fellow workers in the Sears department of the Wyckoff Store. At a dinner in the tearoom, the Sears store family presented Kresge with a gold watch in appreciation for his leadership over the years.

There were no formal speeches or program, at the party which marked his last day at the local store. He has been given an advancement by the Sears-Robuck Co., and will be stationed in the Philadelphia area.

Altar, Rosary Board

Executive board of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's will be held tonight at 8 at the home of Mrs. Paul Kennedy, 1188 West Main St., Stroudsburg.

carried a basket of spring flowers. Alvin Englert Jr., Pen Argyl, served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Frank C. Pensyl, Bangor RD 1 and Val Fontanella, Mount Bethel.

After a reception in the social room of the church, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. After May 6, they will be at home with the bride's parents.

The bride, a graduate of Easton High School, is employed at the Easton National Bank. Mr. Englert, a graduate of Bangor High School, is employed at WCC.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Wide necked dresses are wonderful for summer—but can't they be aggravating when you try to keep them on a hanger? There they hang, neat as soldiers in a row . . . and next time you open the closet door, they are nothing but a tumbled heap of wrinkles on the floor. Unless, of course, they have those terrible tapes stitched inside, so you can literally tie them to the hanger. Those tapes are headaches all right! Here you are pounding away at the typewriter . . . chatting with a friend at the fountain . . . or looking your best on a date, and what happens? First thing you know you feel something half way down your arm, and you think a strap has slipped. But it hasn't. It's just that darned tape, poking its ugly "nose" out with all the furtive slyness of the neighborhood gossip taking notes through a slot in the Venetian blind.

Because of this, all women, I am sure, will be very much interested in the Poly Hanger Guards that are now being sold in Amy Eilenberger's department. These are of a foam rubber composition and are cut in such a way that they slip over any wire hanger, fasten at each side, and fit perfectly. Because of their texture, it is impossible for a fabric to slip away from them . . . no matter how wide the neckline may be. A package of 12, in assorted rainbow colors, sells for 75c and Amy recommends them for use with sport shirts, sweaters, suits, and wide neck blouses. Ask to see them next time you're in our notions department, and end all those aggravating problems of keeping freshly ironed cottons on the hanger.

Stopping in our jewelry department, I inadvertently raised Betty LaBar's blood pressure by tucking a pretty rosary in its jewel-trimmed metal cases, and closing it. "For goodness sake," Betty said in a tone befitting a school marm whose first graders are getting out of control, "I spend most of my time today re-opening that case and letting the rosary 'spill out'. THAT'S how we're displaying it. People are certainly funny. Out there in the center aisle we have a lot of earrings and things all jumbled together, and NO ONE'S attempted to sort them out. But here, where we want it THIS way, everyone's determined to be tidy. I wonder why?"

I can't explain, of course, why people behave the way they do. I can't even explain why I behaved the way I did. I do know, however, that those rosaries, with case, are very good buys for 1.00. Some of the cases are rather small, and have an enameled design; others are jeweled. But if you see the cases open, and the rosaries spilling over, DON'T close them. THAT'S how they're meant to be!

A man's zippered shoe closet has 16 pockets to hold 8 prs. of shoes, and retails at 8.98; a woman's shoe closet has 24 pockets, holds 12 prs. of shoes, and retails at 5.25. This, to me, is a very interesting fact. Does the manufacturer put fewer pockets in the man's shoe closet because he knows that men never have as many clothes of any kind as do their wives? Or does he just suppose that after paying that extra money for HIS shoe closet, a man can't afford to buy any more shoes? Or does a woman's shoe closet have more pockets because a woman's shoes take up less space?

Whatever the reason, a shoe bag is the answer to everyone's problems when it comes to keeping one's things neat and attainable. The men's shoe bag is either blue or brown; his wife's can be in a lustrous assortment of colors. Both eliminate squatting, stooping, and dust, and help prevent mildew. As one sole to another, there's nothing like a good shoe bag to give a new life to a new toe-hold on life to just about any old boot.

Miss Mickey To Be Bride On Saturday

Mrs. Albert Holland of Delaware Water Gap announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Pauline Mickey, to Roy Carrescia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carrescia of Bangor. They will be married on Saturday afternoon, May 4, at 2 o'clock in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. Friends and relatives are invited.

Shoenberger-Smith Rites Performed

Kunkletown — Miss Leah Jane Ellen Smith, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, Kunkletown RD, was married at 3 p.m. on Saturday, April 27, in St. Matthew's Reformed Church, Kunkletown to Allan C. Shoenberger Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Shoenberger of Kunkletown.

Rev. Adan A. Bohner performed the ceremony. Mrs. Stanley Smith was matron of honor and Stanley Smith of Saylorsburg served as best man. The bride wore a gown of pink taffeta with a corsage of white carnations. The matron of honor carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

A reception in honor of the newlyweds was held on Saturday night in the Community Hall, Kunkletown.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Shoenberger attended Polk Township High School and are employed at Scotties Fashions, Little Gap. They will reside in Kunkletown.

ESSTC Nine At Bloomsburg Today

Ockershausen's Team Seeks 3rd Straight League Win

EAST STROUDSBURG State Teachers nine will resume diamond warfare today when the Warriors of George Ockershausen take on Bloomsburg STC in a Teachers Conference duel on the Huskies diamond. ESSTC, 2-2 on the season but 2-0 in the teachers loop, already holds a decision over Bloomsburg, the circuit's defending champions.

Program Set For Barrett Pin Classic

CANADENSIS — Everything is in readiness for the big opening day ceremonies to start the first annual Pocono Mountains Bowling Tournament tomorrow, according to Arch Daily, tourney president.

Top Agenda

The guests, topped by the popular, stumpy Lou Camp and Al Faragalli, National Doubles Champions . . . also includes such notables as Chuck Bednarik, U. of P. All-American center and present mainstay on the Philadelphia Eagles pro squad; Lou Marks, narrator of the East-West Bowling Champions TV show; and a member of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team, Lou Erb, Bethlehem sportsman, will m.c.

Daily reports the last few weeks have produced many hundreds of entries for the spectacular PMBT which will run 60 consecutive days through June 30.

The opening ceremony will be held at the Barrett Bowling Center, Mountainhome tomorrow at 8:00 p.m.

Federal Hill Cops Derby Trial Race

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (P)—Federal Hill, the hometown colt with terrific speed but doubtful staying ability, flashed to a sparkling victory over the favored Gen. Duke today in the $15,000 Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

The result qualified Federal Hill, owned by Clifford Luskky of Louisville, for a starting berth in the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby on Saturday. The son of Cosmic Bomb led all the way in the one-mile prep on a fast track.

Six 3-year-olds contested the trial, and at least five of them are expected to come back in the mile and one-quarter Roses Run, America's premier thoroughbred classic.

Gen. Duke, considered the chief hope of the Calumet Farm of Mrs. Gene Markey for a sixth Derby triumph, ran in last place for almost half a mile, then put on a drive to come up and grab second place. He was 2½ lengths behind Federal Hill, ridden by Willie Carstens.

Second By Neck

Gen. Duke, piloted by Willie Hartack, saved second place by a neck over William S. Miller's Better Bee, who took third by 3½ lengths over Indian Creek, one-half of Ada L. Rice's entry.

Iron Lige, the other part of the Calumet entry which went off as the odds-on favorite at 2-5, ran a poor fifth. He was four lengths back of Indian Creek. Man Up Stairs, the other Rice colt, was last, another dozen lengths in arrears as he certainly eliminated himself from the Derby.

16,500 Present

The time of the race, run over a fast track and under cloudless skies before a crowd of 16,500, was 1:28-1/5, compared with the track record of 1:25 set by Hasty Road in the 1964 Trial. Hasty Road beat Determined that day, but the latter returned on Saturday and reversed the decision in the Derby.

In picking up the purse of $10,500, Federal Hill paid $6.40 and $2.20 as the second choice with no show betting. Gen. Duke returned $2.20 to place.

Elmira Fans Boat To Park

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 30 (P)—Any way to get the fans to the ball park.

The Elmira Pioneers of the New York-Pennsylvania League came up with a new gimmick today—a free boat ride.

A fan waiting to go to the park may catch an 18-foot motorboat from the center of the city to Dunn Park via the Chemung River. Eight trips carried 40 fans to the park last night when Elmira won the opener over Erie, Pa., 11-10.

The boat is provided by Gerry Bolt, an Elmira fan, who does the operating.

Bonus Player Passes Physical

CINCINNATI, April 30 (P)—Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, was advised today that Don Pavletich, 18-year-old bonus catcher, had passed his physical examination in Milwaukee for Army duty. Pavletich telephoned Paul that he would be inducted on May 13.

'Hill' Track, Archers In Action Today

East Stroudsburg Teachers boys track team and girls archery squad will get into action today—on the "hill" and the other—on foreign territory.

Howard DeNike's once-beaten thinslads will invade New Jersey to take on Montclair STC in a dual meet. The archettes, of Katherine Griffith will host Drexel Tech's bow-arrow lassies, starting at 3:30 p.m.

Bowed To Rams

DeNike's cindermen bowed to West Chester in its only dual outing this year. However, the Warriors thinslads did participate in the Penn Relays but failed to place.

It will be the first match of the year for Miss Griffith's archers.

Massey Is After 1st 'Horne' Win

LANGHORNE, Pa. — Jim Massey, of Burlington, N. C. was second in the initial running of the 150-mile Grand National for late model stock cars at the Langhorne Speedway, Sunday afternoon. The Carolina speedster will endeavor to snare his first triumph at the 'Horne when the second running of the "open car" classic is presented around the circular mile course.

Fight To Draw

MANILA, April 30 (P)—Masakazu Otsuka, 118, Japan, and Danny Kidd, 117½, Manila, drew in a 10-round fight tonight. The verdict was boobyed by many of the 11,000 fans. Otsuka appeared to have earned the decision.

McHale Named Tigers' GM; Makes Trade In 1st Move

DETROIT, April 30 (P)—The Detroit Tigers today completed their drastic front office realignment by selecting 35-year-old John J. McHale as the club's new general manager.

McHale immediately swung into action, making a deal that will bring outfielder Karl Olson to the Tigers from the Boston Red Sox. Jack Phillips, 36-year-old much-traveled first baseman who had been at bat only once for Detroit this year, will go to the San Francisco Seals, a Red Sox farm club. Earlier in the day, the Red Sox purchased Olson, whom they previously had owned, from the Washington Senators.

Youngest in Majors

A veteran of 14 years in the Tiger organization, nearly half of them behind a desk, the boyish-looking McHale thus becomes the youngest general manager in major league baseball.

Winding up changes that affected seven men over a three-week span, the baseball club also named Harry Sisson executive vice president in charge of all Briggs Stadium operations and chose Charles Gehring for an advisory role.

Silence Press

"I hope this will keep the front office out of the news for awhile," said board chairman John E. Fetzer at the news conference called an hour before the Tigers met the New York Yankees.

Three weeks ago Herold (Muddy) Ruel announced he was taking a year's leave of absence from his job as assistant to the president. The following week Fred Knorr resigned after less than seven months as president. Harvey Hansen was named to succeed him. Then last Friday Walter O. (Spike) Briggs resigned under fire as general manager, director and executive vice president.

SEE THE MIGHTY CHRYSLER

DURING "MIGHTY VALUE MONTH"

COMPARE THE MIGHTY VALUE YOU GET IN THE $3000 PRICE RANGE!

If you're one of the people who'd love to own the Mighty Chrysler—but think it's a "high-priced" car—here's a pleasant surprise! Now in the $3000 price range—the Mighty Chrysler costs no more than many models of even the low-priced cars.

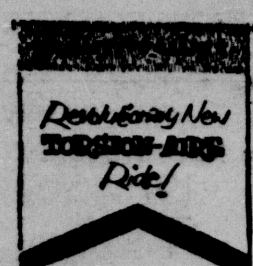

Yet compare the luxury, prestige and list of mighty values only Chrysler gives you! Fabulous Flight-Sweep Styling! The largest windshield area . . . longest, sleekest over-all length in its class! All this plus a resale value that's at an all-time high!

So why wait? Order your Mighty Chrysler now while it's a great time to trade!

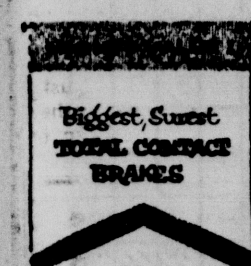

No old-fashioned gearshift or selector lever. Just push a button, Torquemate does the rest . . . quickly, smoothly! Powerful acceleration—yet so easy on the gas!

*Optional at extra cost.

No more bumps alive. No leaning on turns! NEW Torsem-Air is an exclusive combination of Torsem bar front suspension, outboard rear springs, and ball-joints.

No other brakes stop as safely or as surely! That's because Chrysler has more braking area (251 sq. in.) than any other car. Every inch of brake shoe works (not just part of it).

Religion Today

Love May Be Answer To Problem

If you feel like a misunderstood outsider in this crazy-quilt world, maybe you need to fall in love. That's the kind of overflowing, self-giving attitude described in a two-year church study as the "radical healing" needed from the inner frustrations of modern life.

Although the report doesn't use the exact words, it suggests that the blissful exuberance and sweet surrender of falling in love with another human being is an indication of the cure needed—falling in love with God.

"It is being drawn to another in faith and faithful love," said the report, drawn up by a committee of the National Council of Churches in an examination of the insecurities and discontents that beset the age.

The analysis seeks to evaluate, in direct terms, just what is involved in becoming a Christian, and what fulfillment this offers against the modern tide of "loneliness, corroding anxieties, bewilderment and mistrust."

To find personal strength in the love of God, the report says, doesn't mean just a deliberate attempt to imitate Christ—any more than love of another person means just copying him or her.

"It is an involvement in the life of another, too deep for conscious achievement, too spontaneous for deliberate planning, too free and creative to be understood as duplication or echo."

The response, the report says, is not an achievement for which you "can claim credit, not a calculated decision, and not a moral attainment—any more than falling in love is any of these things."

"Decision, self-giving is in-involved in it, as in love or loyalty," it adds, but the decision is caused by an irresistible love—"can do no other."

The study was initiated by the council in the spring of 1955 and is to be recommended to the council's general board meeting in Chicago next week for use by various units of the 30-denomination organization.

It begins with an assessment of today's confusing world—the "dizzy profusion" of modern technology "for both good and ill, tools that make men giants in speed and strength without making them corresponding gentle and wise."

The report cites the rash of "pagan gospels of race, class, national aggrandizement, propagated through the mass media of press and radio, military displays, party-line schools systems, police networks and political pressures."

There, it adds, are "decrying gentleness and weakness, fomenting distrust and conflict, and appealing all too effectively to men's self-interest and their deep cravings for companionship, emotional security, self-respect and some higher power to serve."

Against this troubled background has come a "widely recognized resurgence of conscious concern for religion"—with many people long indifferent or hostile to it now "listening to the spokesman for Christianity in hope of finding some security or satisfaction they have not found elsewhere."

Sign "Just what the sign may signify . . . can be judged better a generation hence. It is much too early to hail what is happening as a 'great awakening' or to write it off as only a widespread failure of nerve or a falling into step with a passing fashion."

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1957
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Soundly progressive and aggressive action and thinking will put this day on the right side of the ledger. Regretting the past or fearing the future can make a poor future. Remember that now!

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—While your influences are not particularly stimulating, your fine intuition and sense of values should tell you to keep plugging steadily at worthwhile goals. You will attain!

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Don't be too quick to judge till you know all the facts, and even then, be considerate and tolerant in your attitude and speech. You can make or break this day through your own approach.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Forget past errors (except to remember not to repeat them when similar situations arise), and strive to make this the best day for solid achievement in a long while. Build! Build! Build!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Influences generally good for Leoite leanings. Exercise your innate ingenuity. Some hours unusually favorable, progressive. Seek rightful gains now.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Where there is a will, you know the rest. Precision, accuracy will help you over the hurdles, which are not as big as they may seem. New opportunities are in the offing; prepare to take advantage of them.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Having regrets, wishing things were different won't solve anything. It is never too late to DO SOMETHING about whatever you think needs changing. Improving "Go forward!"

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Keep things going smoothly; this means especially when they seem roughest. At other times they will mostly take care of themselves. Best use of your abilities, standing by well throughout decisions urged.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Work, think and play in reasonably moderate doses—not too much of one and too little of another. How you handle this day can be important to your future.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—You may have to curtail your activities or press a little harder, depending upon how you have been doing up until now. Be purposeful, but don't over-reach. Guard principles.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Your planet is more auspiciously aspected today than many others. You may be able to get more out of the day than some, therefore, but much will depend upon your will power.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Here are two hints may prove helpful now: Take all matters seriously, but not yourself; don't let annoyances get the better of you; smile, instead.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You're born today are covered by Taurus, the Bull. Remember how sturdy that bull is. He is fanatically stable, holds his own business, yet when infuriated is highly dangerous.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Your own emotions and inclinations count ten times more before you argue and you will become the eloquent example of inner strength you were meant to be. Good music, outdoor activities, religion are tonic for your soul. You love home life, but enjoy travel, too; can appreciate all things good in life and people. Be careful in your selection of associates.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Birthdate of: Joseph Addison, famed essayist, poet, statesman; Geo. Innes, landscape painter.

WOMAN'S HEART IS IN THE HOME. Stroud Union High School FHA members held their annual banquet last night at Greenview Guest Farm. Among principals: Nancy Dennis, secretary; Beryl Godshall, president; Mrs. Catherine Miller, main speaker; Joyce Riday, treasurer; Cheryl Van Why, historian and Joan Werkheiser, vice president.

Homemakers Hold Annual Banquet

STROUD UNION Future Homemakers of America held their annual banquet last night at Greenview Guest Farm, Hamilton Township.

Beryl Godshall was mistress of ceremonies for the program and later presented guests. Nancy Dennis offered the opening prayer. A skit titled "Grandma's Emergency Plan" starred Miss Dennis, Joan Werkheiser, Linda Dennis, and Cheryl Van Why.

A discussion of Civil Defense preparations in Stroudsburg was the main address. Joyce Riday reported on the chapter's 1956 activities. Degrees were presented to Miss Godshall, Miss Dennis and Miss Van Why, president, secretary and historian respectively.

Honor guests were Alfred Munson, Earl Groner, Samuel Wells and Mrs. Catherine Miller. Miss Mary Hall is the advisor to the group under whose guidance the chapter takes part in many school activities.
